

ashm

Developing a sustainable HIV,
viral hepatitis & sexual health workforce

Viral hepatitis and preventing liver cancer

Date: Tuesday 29th October 2024

Time: 6:30pm – 9:00pm (AEDT) (Dinner and refreshments will be served from 6:45pm)

Venue: TBC, Canberra

Chronic hepatitis B and chronic hepatitis C are the leading causes of liver cancer in Australia. Appropriate screening and testing are pivotal in the identification and management of hepatitis B and C and the prevention of liver cancer.

This course will provide General Practitioners, other Medical Practitioners, Nurse Practitioners, nursing professionals and health care providers with the knowledge and confidence to prevent liver cancer through effective diagnosis and management of hepatitis B and hepatitis C

This free 2-hour face-face includes presentations from specialists, facilitated case studies, and Q&A.

Presenters:

A/Prof. Shiv Chitturi, Staff Specialist, Gastroenterology & Hepatology Unit, Canberra Hospital
Dr Ericka Flores, Gastroenterologist & Hepatologist, Canberra Hospital

Learning Outcomes:

By the end of this training, participants will be able to:

1. Identify risk factors for HBV, HCV, and hepatocellular carcinoma (HCC), enabling discussions around prevention
2. Interpret HBV and HCV test results correctly to improve diagnosis and linkage to care
3. Explain the role of appropriate HBV and HCV management in the decreased incidence of liver cancer
4. Describe the recommended HCC screening guidelines

This is an RACGP approved CPD activity under the RACGP CPD Program

Click to Register

For further details or assistance contact:

ASHM Education

ASHEducation@ashm.org.au

M: 0431 320 429.

This training is funded by:
ACT Health Directorate

Liability/Insurance

Registration does not include insurance of any kind. It is strongly recommended that all attendees take out their own travel insurance and medical insurance prior to the meeting. The policy should include loss of fees through cancellation of your participation in the meeting itself, loss of airfares for any reason, medical expenses and repatriation should travel arrangements have to be altered. In the event of industrial disruptions or natural disasters the ASHM cannot accept responsibility for any financial or other losses incurred by delegates. Nor can ASHM take responsibility for injury or damage to property or persons occurring during the meeting or associated activities. Insurance is the responsibility of the individual attendee.