

Queensland Prison Forum

Online Webinar

 Date: Wednesday, 17 June 2026

 Time: 12:30pm - 2:00pm (AEST)

 Platform: Online via Zoom

Suitable for: Healthcare professionals working within correctional centres, or those providing in-reach services and care to individuals with lived experience of incarceration.

Explore the clinical spectrum and health system impact of injection-related infections among incarcerated Australians who inject drugs. Dr Andrew Joseph Palmer will present on his research paper: Injection-related infections among incarcerated Australians who inject drugs: clinical spectrum, microbiology, and healthcare costs in a real-world hospital cohort.

Learning Outcomes

1. Describe the burden and clinical presentation of injection-related infections among incarcerated Australians who inject drugs.
2. Outline the key microbiological patterns identified in hospitalised cases.
3. Consider the health system and economic impacts of these infections and their implications for care in correctional settings.

Featured speakers

- Dr Andrew Joseph Palmer | Medical Registrar | QLD Health

Additional Speakers TBC...

This activity may be suitable for self-claiming 1.5 CPD hours with your professional body. A statement of attendance will be provided for full attendees.

More information

 M: 0431 320 429

 E: education@ashm.org.au

Click here or scan QR code to register

